DETAILED ACTION

This office action follows a response filed on October 14, 2004. Applicants have amended claims 1 and 12. Claims 1-22 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102 / 35 USC § 103

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over U.S. 2001/0034298 to Isobe et al.

The prior art of Isobe et al. teaches a catalyst and a process for polymerization using said catalyst wherein the catalyst is comprised of a metallocene, an activator, and an ion-exchangeable layered inorganic compound as the support/carrier (see claim 1 and abstract). In particular, use of the compounds 2-methyltetrahydroindenyl(Cp)ZrCl₂ (where Cp = cyclopentadienyl), 2-ethyltetrahydroindenyl(Cp)ZrCl₂, 4-methyltetrahydroindenyl(Cp)ZrCl₂, 2,4-dimethyltetrahydroindenyl(Cp)ZrCl₂, and 2-methyl-4-phenyltetrahydroindenyl(Cp)ZrCl₂ is prescribed clearly on page 4, entries (11) and (13)-(16). These compounds possess the requisite structural features recited in present claims 1, 3-5, 12, and 14-17, and the catalyst system also meets the parameters set forth in the claims. Polymerization may be carried out in the absence of solvent at a temperature of up to 250 °C (i.e., gas phase) (paragraph [0165]). Olefins usable in the polymerization include ethylene and C₃-C₈ α-olefins, and copolymerization of ethylene and α-olefin is well within the scope of the invention (paragraph [0163] and examples).

The reference does not illustrate copolymerization of ethylene and 1-hexene in the examples, and therefore, the reference is silent with regard to the properties of such a resulting copolymer. It is noted that the claims recite conditional parameters. Since the catalyst and method of polymerization shown in Isobe et al. is essentially the same as that recited in the present claims, then a reasonable basis exists to believe that when the comonomer is 1-hexene, and the C₆/C₂ mole ratio were varied accordingly, the resulting polymer would possess the properties recited in the claims. Since the PTO can not conduct experiments, the burden of proof is shifted to the Applicants to establish an unobviousness difference. In re Fitzgerald, 619 F.2d. 67, 205 USPQ 594 (CCPA 1980). See MPEP § 2112-2112.02.

Response to Arguments

3. The rejection of claims 1-22 under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) / 35 U.S.C. 103(a) over U.S. Patent No. 6,180,736 to Muhle et al. has been overcome by amendment. The reference does not teach use of substituted tetrahydroindenyl ligands. In fact, the general teaching is directed toward use of metallocenes containing unsubstituted tetrahydroindenyl ligands.

Claim objections have been withdrawn in light of Applicant's explanation of terminology.

Art Unit: 1713

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
